Intuit Encouraging Small Businesses to Help Each Other

America's entrepreneurial spirit is stronger - and more united - than ever, according to Intuit's recent study. Nine out of 10 small business owners surveyed said they rely on peers for support and advice. Fifty-one percent of small business owners said they feel a special bond or connection with other small business owners, while 53 percent believe they can learn from their peers' mistakes and successes.

Tapping into this sense of community, Intuit is providing a way for small businesses to win up to $25,000 by sharing their success stories and advice.

Entrants simply go to www.smallbusinessunited.com to share their experiences and survival tips. Judges will select 50 finalists to receive $5,000 and a Pure Digital Flip Video(TM) camcorder. These finalists are eligible to supplement their story with a video that will be posted on the site for public viewing and voting. This group will be narrowed down to four first prize winners, who will each receive $10,000 plus $2,500 worth of Intuit products. The grand prize winner will receive $25,000 and $2,500 worth of Intuit products and services. Entries are due by March 23 and finalists will be selected by April 1. Winners will be announced in May.

Helping Organizations Helping Small Business

Intuit is also contributing $50,000 in grants to several organizations that support and develop small businesses and entrepreneurs. These organizations, including The Latino Coalition, National Black Chamber of Commerce, Small Business & Entrepreneurship Council, and Women Impacting Public Policy, represent some of the faces of individuals starting new businesses today, according to the Intuit Future of Small Business Report.

Intuit's Small Business United initiative is just one example of Intuit's renewed company-wide focus on helping consumers and small businesses save and make money. While this benefit is particularly relevant in today's environment, it has and always will be Intuit's hallmark as it continues to deliver innovative products and services for its customers.
