ITEM 1.01 ENTRY INTO A MATERIAL DEFINITIVE AGREEMENT.

On November 29, 2006, Intuit Inc., a Delaware corporation (“Intuit”), entered into a definitive merger agreement (the “Merger Agreement”) to acquire Digital Insight Corporation (“Digital Insight”) in a merger transaction pursuant to which Digital Insight will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Intuit (the “Merger”). Pursuant to the terms of the Merger Agreement and subject to the conditions thereof, Intuit will acquire all of the outstanding shares of Digital Insight Corporation Common Stock for a cash amount of $39.00 per share, for a total purchase price of approximately $1.35 billion on a fully diluted basis. Intuit will assume Digital Insight’s stock options which are outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the Merger (other than options held by non-employee directors of Digital Insight). Each assumed Digital Insight stock option will be converted into an option to purchase a number of shares of Intuit common stock equal to $39.00 divided by the average closing sales price for a share of Intuit Common Stock as quoted on the Nasdaq Stock Market for the ten consecutive trading days ending with the third trading day that precedes the closing date of the Merger. Each unvested Digital Insight stock option held by non-employee directors of Digital Insight will be accelerated and all outstanding options held by non-employee directors will receive a cash payment equal to the difference of $39.00 per share multiplied by the number of Digital Insight shares subject to the option, less the aggregate exercise price of the option. Payment for unvested shares of restricted stock will be made in cash on the date that such shares would have become vested in accordance with the holders’ restricted stock vesting schedules. This transaction will be taxable to Digital Insight stockholders.

Each of Digital Insight’s disinterested directors and certain of its executive officers have agreed, in their capacity as stockholders of Digital Insight, to vote their shares in favor of the Merger and against any proposal made in opposition to or in competition with the Merger.

The consummation of the Merger is subject to regulatory review, Digital Insight stockholder approval and other customary closing conditions. Dates for closing the Merger and for Digital Insight’s stockholders’ meeting to vote on the Merger have not yet been determined.

Intuit expects to file a copy of the Merger Agreement as an exhibit to its Form 10-Q for the quarter ending January 31, 2007. We encourage you to read the Merger Agreement for a more complete understanding of the transaction. The foregoing description of the Merger Agreement is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Merger Agreement.

Intuit to Acquire Digital Insight
Stage set for New Generation of Online Banking Solutions

MOUNTAIN VIEW and CALABASAS, Calif. — Nov. 30, 2006 — Intuit Inc. (Nasdaq: INTU) and Digital Insight Corp. (Nasdaq: DGIN) have signed a definitive agreement for Intuit to acquire Digital Insight. Under the terms of the agreement, Intuit will pay $39 per share in cash for each Digital Insight common share. The total purchase price is approximately $1.35 billion on a fully diluted basis.

The acquisition will bring together Digital Insight, a leading provider of online banking services, and Intuit, the leading provider of financial management software, to millions of small businesses and consumers. Together, the companies will serve more than 5,000 financial institutions, nearly 25 million consumers and nearly 7 million small businesses. The acquisition will combine Intuit's culture of customer-driven innovation and leading brands with Digital Insight's best-in-class distribution and application service provider model.

"The combination of two industry leaders will put Intuit in an excellent position to bring a new generation of online banking solutions to market in a way that will redefine the way small businesses and consumers manage their financial lives," said Steve Bennett, Intuit president and chief executive officer.

With the acquisition, Intuit will be able to combine work flows in its financial management tools with online banking capability offered by Digital Insight to create new, easier, and better-value offerings for consumers and small businesses.

“Online banking is growing rapidly, but today’s solutions don’t meet the needs of most small businesses and many consumers,” said Jeff Stiefler, Digital Insight chairman, president and chief executive officer. “Digital Insight’s and Intuit’s combined assets and competencies will change the game for small businesses, consumers and the financial institutions that serve them. In addition to the clear business benefit of this proposed acquisition, both companies have already had the opportunity to work closely together to develop the mutual trust and respect that is a critical prerequisite for any business combination to be successful.”

Following the closing of the acquisition, Digital Insight’s business operations will continue to operate from its existing facilities in California and Georgia. The Digital Insight business operations will establish the foundation for a newly formed financial institutions business division within Intuit, with Stiefler serving as that unit’s president.

The transaction is subject to regulatory review, Digital Insight shareholder approval and other customary closing conditions. After closing, expected in the first calendar quarter of 2007, Digital Insight will become part of Intuit, and Digital Insight stock will cease trading. Intuit plans to finance the transaction with a combination of existing cash balances and up to $1 billion of debt financing, although there are no financing contingencies in the merger agreement. The transaction is expected to be dilutive to Intuit by two to three cents per share on a non GAAP basis in its current fiscal year and slightly accretive on a non GAAP basis in fiscal 2008.
